Porsche Rennsport Reunion IV: REVs Porsche Program

October 18, 2014 by John Leblanc

So what’s all that tech stuff on this 1960 Porsche Abarth Carrera GTL? Looks rather advanced for its 53 years ago. So it is because the car is part of a Reimagining program that involves Stanford University, well-known collector (and Porsche raver!) Mike Cohen has partnered with the institution to create a program called REVs.

The point is to bring an intellectual approach to the study of all aspects of automobiles. That includes the engineering side and as a result, the young students at Stanford have been instrumenting automobiles of all types to study their dynamics.

This work involves very detailed information, hence the real time telemetry on this Porsche at Rennsport. very modern data collection from a classic Porsche.
